The Veil Of Ignorance

For too long we have argued for better schools and education. The time has come to do something about it. The problem is not the schools, the teachers, the children, or even the parents. It is the system and focus of education that is the problem. The Washington Davidson Academies want to provide a new model for educating children in the 21st Century.

Why: Schools in at risk areas are failing and the various proposed solutions have not worked. We believe we have a better model. We want to give your child a better chance at success in life.

How: Booker T. Washington said: “ You may fill your heads with knowledge or skillfully train your hands, but unless it is based upon high, upright character, upon a true heart, it will amount to nothing. You will be no better than the most ignorant.”

Taking these words to heart the WDAs will focus on developing a sound, moral and upright core character in its students as a foundation for learning. With that core we believe children and adults will want to learn and learn for the right reasons. We believe that teaching why we learn and how we learn are as important as learning itself.

Learning is also not just about academic knowledge. It is about life skills, work ethic, and competing in all phases of life to become successful members of society.

What: Washington Davidson Academies are what we consider functional learning centers. We offer a safe disciplined learning environment where young people can learn in peace with all of the support they need to succeed.

When: Beginning in September of 2015 WDAs will open two learning centers for children age 4-7 or Pre-K through 2nd grade. These will be located in Oklahoma with one in North Tulsa and the other in Muskogee.

Enrollment begins August 1st.
